

5/7/11

Here is the new reply: Feedback on Creative Copy Challenge #141

@Rebecca-wow- I am in awe how so much drama can be held in so few words-Loved it!

Cathy Miller — 2011-05-07 15:08:18

5/7/11

Here is the new reply: Feedback on Creative Copy Challenge #141

Rebecca, you turned that phrase like it stole something! He beat the drum of unhappiness for so long and didn't know any better; it was the sheet music to his life. Awesome!!

Cheers,

Mitch Allen — 2011-05-07 09:43:12

5/6/11

Here is the new reply: Feedback on Creative Copy Challenge #141

And we all know a Julian! I loved this.

Tanja Cilia — 2011-05-06 09:59:26

5/5/11

Here is the new reply: Feedback on Creative Copy Challenge #140

@Rebecca: Awesome! Made me cheer for Amy and her success. More of this.

Shane Arthur — 2011-05-05 07:06:51

5/4/11

Here is the new reply: Feedback on Creative Copy Challenge #140

@Rebecca-what a nice story of hope and triumph-loved it!

Cathy Miller — 2011-05-04 05:30:09

5/3/11

Here is the new reply: Feedback on Creative Copy Challenge #140

Great emotional impact, Rebecca! Wonderful images of Amy -- I love to see people rise above the horrible things that they were subject to through no fault of their own!

Chris Fries — 2011-05-03 05:41:55

5/2/11

Here is the new reply: Feedback on Creative Copy Challenge #140

Very nice. I know several people who had horrific childhoods and grew up to be loving, gentle and kind adults. The cycle of abuse can be stopped!

Lydia — 2011-05-02 08:17:1

5/1/11

Here is the new reply: Feedback on Creative Copy Challenge #139

@Rebecca: Well done. You made me want to reach out and tell poor William to run for the hills.

Shane Arthur — 2011-05-01 11:11:28

4/29/11

Here is the new reply: Feedback on Creative Copy Challenge #139

For some reason this made me think of the Salem Witch trials and the women accused of "cursing" men with their wiles. Good story.

Justin Germino — 2011-04-29 13:45:31

4/29/11

Here is the new reply: Feedback on Creative Copy Challenge #139

What a story!

I wonder what Shelby Quinn's version of it would look like? Does she actually practice Hoodoo or are the people around her overreacting to events that have natural causes? It's amazing to see how quickly public perception of an individual can change based on the true (or untrue) things people say about them.

Lydia — 2011-04-29 08:20:48

4/29/11

Here is the new reply: Feedback on Creative Copy Challenge #139

Nice job, Rebecca! I'm especially curious about Shelby — she's already a fabulous character and we've barely even met her yet.

Chris Fries April 29, 2011 at 9:47 am

4/28/11

Here is the new reply: Feedback on Creative Copy Challenge #139

LOL. I love this one, Rebecca. Sounds like a pitch for a screenplay!

Cheers,
Mitch

4/26/11

Here is the new reply: Feedback on Creative Copy Challenge #138

Wonderful character-painting, Rebecca! I really liked this.

Chris Fries – 2011-04-26 04:47:33

4/25/11

Here is the new reply: Feedback on Creative Copy Challenge #138

@Rebecca-great character-love it! Cathy Miller — 2011-04-25 04:53:50

Here is the new reply: Feedback on Creative Copy Challenge #138

@Rebecca: I believe THIS is your new, best submission thus far. Super job.

Shane Arthur — 2011-04-25 12:54:40

4/24/11

Here is the new reply: Feedback on Creative Copy Challenge #137

@Rebecca: I've spent 20 minutes trying to find this old book I have that reminds me of this story. I can't find it and I can't remember what the name is. I'll let you know when I do. As you can probably guess, I like this submission and similar story lines.

Shane Arthur — 2011-04-24 18:13:17

4/23/11

Here is the new reply: Feedback on Creative Copy Challenge #137

Rebecca, this is nicely woven. We get to see a woman just chillin' and ruminating, possibly while getting ready to attend the event? This is the kind of character development that makes for a great story!

Cheers,
Mitch

4/20/11

Here is the new reply: Feedback on Creative Copy Challenge #136

Rebecca—From her lilac perfume onward, I was hooked. Lilac perfume just sounds perfectly like something that would set him into a nostalgic tailspin.

Kelly ——— 2011-04-20 14:06:10

4/19/11

Feedback on Creative Copy Challenge #136

Here is the new reply: Ooh! I hope Bryan figures out why Alana wasn't acting like herself before she died.

Lydia ——— 2011-04-19 08:04:02

Here is the new reply: Feedback on Creative Copy Challenge #136

Rebecca, you got game! This is an intriguing opening. I join everyone else in clamoring for more on this!

Cheers,
Mitch

Here is the new reply: Feedback on Creative Copy Challenge #136

Wow, nice! This pulled me in and left me wanting more. Opened some really great story questions: What was going on with Alana? How did she die? What was written on the note? What is going on in Bryan's mind, and why has he waited a year to let it stew?

I'm eager to read more! Chris Fries ——— 2011-04-19 08:46:35

Shane Arthur April 19, 2011 at 8:50 am Feedback on Creative Copy Challenge #136

@Rebecca: You planted quite a seed at the end. Well done. I want to know more.

4/11/11

Writing Prompts – Creative Copy Challenge #134

Here is the new reply:

Nice little story, wonder if Vivienne will succeed in stealing Jack for herself.
Justin Germino — 2011-04-11 14:17:21

Very intriguing, Rebecca. I would totally read this story! Will it be ready for the summer reading season? :)

Cheers,
Mitchell Allen — 2011-04-11 22:41:05

@Rebecca: That was hot and heavy. Vivienne knows what she wants. I like this character.

Shane Arthur — 2011-04-11 17:58:37

4/7/11

Writing Prompts – Creative Copy Challenge #133

Rebecca: That was a touching story. Drew me into the emotion. Great job.

Shane Arthur April 7, 2011 at 8:41 am

Rebecca, this is great! Nice mix of introspection and imagery.

Cheers,
Mitch